

The Task: Ray Bradbury called science fiction the art of the possible. In his 1950s story, "There Will Come Soft Rains," Bradbury created what he saw as the house of the future. Using details from the story, show how Bradbury's ideas from 60 years ago are not only possible, but are here in 2017. Use the tabletop organizer to highlight at least four examples of Bradbury's futuristic home and its actual 2017 counterpart. Then write a 10-12 sentence paragraph proving your claim.

- Your paper will not be graded if it contains:
- errors in capitalization
  - errors in story punctuation
  - font larger than 12

You must include the title and the author in your paragraph.
 Double space your paper.

RUBRIC	Possible points	Your points
Addresses the prompt completely and accurately	10
Provides a solid topic sentence	20
Includes at least four pieces of text evidence	20
Demonstrates a valid conclusion	10
Properly punctuates titles, with ALL capital letters properly used	10
Is free of run-on sentences and sentence fragments	10
Is free from spelling and punctuation errors	10
Shows evidence of editing, care and effort	10
YOUR SCORE

Topic Sentence

What Readbury created

What has been created

Evidence . . .

Evidence . . .

Evidence . . .

Evidence . . .

Conclusion:

